MALLORY INTERNATIONAL IN GHANA

Mallory International is probably the leading Africa specialist among British exporting booksellers, with orders of every size.

We airfreight regularly to Accra from the UK, and our local presence in Ghana ensures rapid clearance and delivery of orders. Major universities, schools and specialist institutions are among our customers.

Emmanuel Abbiw has enormous experience of dealing with the needs of educational institutions in Ghana, as teacher, publisher, bookseller and importer, and gives a local, immediately available, point of contact with the customer. We have worked together for over three years, and we have built an experienced and reliable partnership. Contact details are listed below.

The range of services offered is shown opposite; and Mallory also has a purchasing office in the United States, to deal with specialised titles published there, and not widely distributed in other countries.

We pay particular attention to:

- the details of supply;
- the reliability of local delivery;
- the precision of consolidation and paperwork; and
- the professional management of documentary credits and the related financial infrastructure.

When you place business with us you can rely on our detailed and precise attention.
